

Huntington Woods. He's 71 years old and a terrific golfer. A feature was even done on him on the television sports news."

John Schmersey, buyer, and Larry Lewis, printing, both hit the men's longest drive.

"My team bogied the hole before the 18th where I made the longest drive and I think I was frustrated from that," Schmersey says. His drive was about 295 yards on the 310 yard hole.

The closest to the pin shots were made by Max Vance, construction design, and Dan Killian, printing.

Max Vance says, "This is the second time I won this award at K Day. I was about three and a half to four feet on the 15th hole from the pin."

The first place team, with seven under par, includes golfers Steve Gerych, Chris Mashke, Phil Esposito, Mike Bakos, Dave Wilson.

Two teams tied for second place with six under par. The first team consists of: Ron Humbarger (Canton Distribution Center), Marlene Lintz, Pete Scussel, Tom Falotico, Don Morford. The second team golfers are: Jon Hartman, Rose Bucca, Jerry Fletcher, Roy Schroeder, Ian Hay.

During the dinner held after all players had completed their golf games, over 30 prizes were awarded, including a video recorder, a black and white television, table band saw, bicycles and picnic tables.

Paul Vercammen would appreciate receiving all comments from golfers concerning K Day, in the hopes of making next year's outing even better.

Winning hands

Good cards and lots of luck were the two factors that partners hoped for at the annual Card Tournament held the Wednesday before K Day.

Liz Cox, suggestions, and Kay Connelly, construction, won with 690 points for Pinochle, while Tom Gadwa, financial reporting, and Paul Esposito, financial reporting, won with 690 points.

"We were so surprised when we won," Cox says. "We got such bad cards! When we finally did bid, we didn't get set. That's what helped us."

In Bridge, Winston Carver, buyer, and Joe Thomas, vice president transportation and distribution merchandising systems, won with 5,900 points. Partners Herb Christner, assistant treasurer, and Howard Brubaker, senior buyer, had a winning score of 6,500.

"I attribute our win to the luck of the cards," Carver says. "We had good cards in the beginning, but tapered off as the tournament went on. I never won a tournament before."

The Bid Whist winners were Louise Traylor, data processing, and Carol Brunk, data entry, grabbing 121 points and partners Carolyn Covington, import, and Delores Mims, men's wear, with 113 points.

"We won because we were better players! And we had a good hand and we're good partners," says Traylor. "I've been playing for many years. During the tournament we played about 15 games."

The Euchre champs were partners Dave Falkenbury, printing, and Jane Vennix, printing, with 54 points. Paul Wise, CSD, and Barb Hammond, CSD, won a close second with 53 points.

"We didn't even know we had a chance of winning until the second to the last game," Barb
